to obtain new ideas for his establishment. One feature in which he points out that the influence of American travellers is shown is that the most up-to-date European hotel devote much space to the lobby and to public lounging places than formerly. Other American improvements such as telephones in every room have been introduced while every big hotel of recent construction have its American bar presided over by a mixologist imported from New York. In one respect, however, Herr Adlon insists that continental hotels are still ahead of the majority of those in America and that is in the quality of the cooking. If Europe finds it necessary to import American bartenders the United States is compelled to import French and German chefs so that honors are easy in this respect.

ATLAS DUE IN THIS MORNING WITH BIG OIL SUPPLY—WAR VESSELS TO ARRIVE—ALLIANCE IN AND UP—NOTES.

Nestucca yesterday with the Della, alias "the Pup," and carried a good load of general merchandise, among which was a handsome motor boat lashed amidships.

The Keating launch Pilot will come off the ways at Leathers' today, in fine trim, being newly planked with cedar, and with new guards, and entirely repainted, and altogether fit for a new campaign of bay service.

The keel for a 54-foot motor launch, of the same dimensions as the new and handsome Pilot No. 2, belonging to Capt. James Keating, has just been laid at the Leathers' yards, for F. C. Barnes, of Lake Bay, Alaska. It will be equipped with a 35 horsepower, three-cylinder Troyer-Fox engine, and will be a fine craft when finished.

There are seven war vessels due in this harbor within the next 48 hours, all bound for the metropolis and the Rose Festival, at which they will figure as conspicuous attractions, to wit: The torpedo boat destroyers Peble and Perry; the torpedo boats Farragut, Fox and Davis; the gunboat Yorktown, and the cruiser Charleston.

The fine steamship Atlas of the Standard oil fleet will enter port today and will re-charge the big tank of the company at the foot of Sixth street, with a full cargo of fuel oil.

It begins to look as if Astoria was to figure in a water-way scrap between the Bailey Gatzert and the Chas. R. Spencer, the two Columbia flyers.

The steamer Alliance arrived in from Coos Bay yesterday and docked at the Callender at 1:30 o'clock. She had a big passenger list and plenty of freight.

The steamship Breakwater is due down from Portland this morning, bound for Coos Bay, and will leave out at once.

The big steam launch built by R. M. Leathers for the Pacific Transportation Company, at South Bend, will leave the ways this morning, and will be towed around at the earliest practicable moment, and fitted with machinery, for service this season.

NEW YORK, May 27—Although the skyscrapers is the distinctive feature of New York architecture and this city possesses the tallest building in the world, with the new 680 foot Metropolitan tower at the head of the list, a vigorous warfare on this class of structure has begun here. According to its opponents the skyscraper's list of sins is a long one. It adds to the congestion of the streets, already a very serious problem in the downtown district. It shuts off light and air from other buildings while creating tremendous drafts through the canyon like depths that are formed by its walls. The fifty-story building is uneconomic, it is said, because of the increased cost of construction to provide against tremendous strains and wind pressure. Fire department officials declare that a conflagration five hundred feet above the street level cannot be fought successfully with any apparatus yet devised. To the claim that these buildings are proof against fire, they point to the recent destruction of the Parker building which was supposed to be an excellent example of fire proof construction. A number of civic organizations have adopted resolutions against the erection of any more buildings of enormous height. Curiously enough one of the most active opponents of the skyscraper is the architect of the Singer building, who is responsible for several of the structures against which he protests. Now the novelists have taken a hand in the agitation and in a story printed in the June number of Appleton's a convincing picture is given of a daring band of criminals who hold up the whole city by taking possession of the top floors of a skyscraper and arming themselves with high explosives. While this possibility may be disregarded as a practiced danger, it has been pointed out often by military experts that New York's soaring buildings would afford a fine target for the long range guns of a hostile fleet and that the whole lower city could easily be reduced to ruins in case of war. If this is true the idea of the Appleton writer may not be so fanciful as it seems. At any rate there is a rising slogan which declares that while the skyscraper need not go more of the most extreme kind shall come.

New York is now the gateway for more than a third of all the grain which is exported from the United States. This fact comes as a surprise to many persons who were not aware of the big part that this city plays in the agricultural business of the country. The statement is supported by government statistics, however. Reports of the Department of Commerce and Labor show that over 100,000,000 bushels of grain are now received at this port every year for consumption and shipment abroad. The months of heaviest exports are now over but the flood continues to pour into the city. It bids fair to be increased in the next ten days by the arrival of record shipments of wheat and corn from the western primary markets following the opening of transportation on the Great Lakes. The size of these shipments is an interesting commentary on the volume of the actual grain which is represented by the transactions on the Chicago Board of Trade and other exchanges. The recent movement set a new weekly record of grain shipments from Chicago. Over 19,000,000 bushels of cereals will have been shipped from that city alone by the end of the month. All the available vessels on the lakes have been pressed into service to carry the grain from Chicago, Duluth and other ports. Not all of this huge outpour of grain will reach New York, however, as some of it will go to other eastern points for milling and export.

The death of "The" Allen, the veteran gambler who for thirty years successfully defied the efforts of the police to close his resorts removes the man who for years held the title of "the wickedest man in New York." Whether he deserved it is doubtful. In fact his friends insist that the original "wickedest man" was an altogether different Allen and that "The" received the appellation through a confusion of names. By most New Yorkers he will be remembered for the diversion caused by his warfare with successive police captains who raided his place as many as a hundred times in the course of a year, but never succeeded in putting him out of business. He retired voluntarily two years ago. It is an interesting commentary on the supposedly enormous profits of gambling places that after forty years as a gambler Allen died a comparatively poor man.

There is a procession of expositions in New York that extends from one year's end to another's but perhaps the oddest of these is the one that has been holding forth in Madison Square Garden during the present week. It is called a "Parents' Exposition." Its most interesting exhibits have been hundreds of exceedingly lively babies calculated to drive all thoughts of race suicide from the minds of the visitors. All the most scientific appliances for the successful upbringing of youngsters have been exhibited and lectures have been delivered by experts presumably of interest to members of the Newlywed family. Appropriately enough the presiding genius of the affair is represented by the huge figure of a stork carrying a baby suspended from its bill.

The Commercial.

One of the coziest and most popular resorts in the city is the Commercial. A new billiard room, a pleasant sitting room and handsome fixtures all go to make an agreeable meeting place for gentlemen, there to discuss the topics of the day, play a game of billiards and enjoy the fine refreshments served there. The best of goods are only handled, and this fact being so well known, a large business is done at the Commercial, on Commercial street, near Eleventh.

Statement to Voters.

The office of County Coroner is not a political but a judiciary office as much so as the Circuit Judge or Justice of the Peace. In aspiring to that office I would just as soon ask a Republican, as a Democrat, Socialist or nonpartisan for his support, as the office should be and during my incumbency always has been conducted without regard to politics.

I have resided in Clatsop County for 34 years, my whole interests are here, and I expect to remain here.

I have tried to conduct the office with impartiality and fairness and with a due regard to the interest of the taxpayers. The annual appropriations of the County Court for the Coroner's office which includes, physicians, jurors and witness fees and other necessary expenses such as boat hire have been $600.00 and the actual expense has often been much below this figure. I have always deemed it an honor to be Coroner and am willing to submit the matter of my re-election to the voters on my record during my long tenure in the office. W. C. A. POHL.

NEW YORK has had a bridge scare this week, caused by the report that the new Blackwell's Island Bridge across the East River was overloaded and likely to collapse in the same manner as the great Quebec bridge which fell last year and which was the same type of structure. The Brooklyn and Williamsburg bridges are both of the suspension variety but this new structure is a cantilever. It is not yet completed but so far has cost the city about six and a quarter million dollars and it is estimated that a million and a half more will be needed to finish it. The prospect of seeing all this wealth fall into the East River naturally does not appeal to the overburdened metropolitan taxpayers, to say nothing of the loss of that would result. The charges that the bridge is in a dangerous condition are made by engineers and other engineers, employed by the city, are now making an investigation. Periodically there is alarm over the safety of the older bridges. These contain at certain hours of the day from ten to twenty thousand persons at one time and if one of them were to fall it would be one of the greatest catastrophes in the history of the country.
